In the world's broad field of battle,
In the conflict of real life,
Advertsing is the secret
Of achievement in the strife,
Lives of rich men all remind us
We can make our own sublime;
And by liberal adv rtising
To the highest summit climb.

FAYETTEVILLE OBSERVER.

Tell me not in mournful numbers,
Advertising does not pay;
For the man's non compus mentis
Who would such absurd things say.
Life is real! Life is earnest!
And the man who hopes to rise
To success in any calling,
Must expect to advertise.

NEWS AND COMMENT.

THE political pot is beginning to simmer.

DURING her brief sojourn at Asheville last week, Mrs. President HARRISON became so much enamored with the beauties and attractions of the mountain metropolis that she declared her intention to return, and send the President down there this summer.

"JOE JEFFERSON says the women of Pittsburg are the handsomest he has seen in this country." If JOSEPH had accepted the invitation which we have repeatedly extended to him to visit Fayetteville, he would have been spared the mortification of "rushing into print" with such an opinion.

MRS. HARRISON has had published in the Philadelphia Ladies' Home Journal an article full of disparagement of the accommodations of the White House, and recommending costly changes in the building which will dispose of some of the "surplus." What's gone with the "Jeffersonian simplicity?"

THE Norfolk & Western R. R. people are represented as saying that it is only a question of how much freight the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway is able to manage when the two roads meet across the Blue Ridge. Well, the latter can get away with an immense pile of it now, and cars are being turned out of the shops every day, in anticipation of the great future demand upon the road's transportation facilities.

THE indications are unmistakable that the Merchants' Excursion to Wilmington on the 16th and 17th prox., celebrating the completion of the Eastern extension of the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway, will be one of the grand jollifications of the day. The people of Wilmington will acquit themselves of their part of the entertainment gracefully, we may be sure, and visitors will throng the beautiful streets of their city from all parts of the State.

IN a short time Hon. A. M. WADDELL'S new book will be issued from the press, with the title: "A Colonial Officer And His Times," the central figure of its pages Col. HUGH WADDELL, distinguished in the history of the State a century ago. The gifted bearer of a name still honored in the Upper and Lower Cape Fear has already made important and valuable contributions to our literature, and the reading public will receive with delight any offering from his scholarly pen.

THE rapid extension of the operations of the Postal Telegraph and Commercial Cable Company is almost without precedent. Its wires net-work the whole country, its offices are everywhere, and it has recently just doubled its capital stock, increasing it from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000. It furnishes an exemplary pattern of convenience and durability in all the details of construction and putting up of the lines, completion of arrangement of the operating offices, etc. A portion of the added capital will be applied to extend the business farther West.

THE millenium is a good piece off yet, if it is to come only after the conversion of all the heathen. New York city seems to be to-day a hot-bed of "hoodlums," barbarians and "toughs," and the journals of the great metropolis teem with the records of crime in all its devilish ingenuity and hideous flagrancy:—scandalous divorce suits, husbands slashing and shooting their wives, and wives poisoning their husbands, drunkenness and immorality in parents, precocity of evil in children, corruption in high places, malfeasance in the conduct of public affairs, etc., etc. It is now in order for George Francis Train, Anthony Comstock, Col. Elliott F. Shepherd, or some other world's reformer in thirty days, to rise up and apostrophize the wicked city as Marino Faliero anathematized Venice:

Gehenna of the waters, thou sea Sodom!
Thus I devote thee to the infernal gods—
Thee and thy serpent seed!

GEN. ROBERT C. SCHENCK died in the city of Washington a few days since at a very advanced age. He once filled quite a large place in public affairs—was a member of Congress, attained the rank of Brigadier General in the Federal army during the war, and in 1870, during the first administration of GRANT, was Minister to the Court of St. James. But he was a bitter politician, who made many enemies even within his own party, and these eagerly embraced the opportunity afforded by his alleged complicity with the "Emma Mine" fraud to send him to political "Coventry," whence he never emerged to the day of his death. Gen. SCHENCK was a notable instance of the facility with which a public man may be run down by misrepresentation: An English lady became very much interested in the American game of poker, the rules for which Gen. SCHENCK wrote out for her benefit, and which she subsequently had put up in printed form for her own convenience. Straightway he was accused of violating the dignity of his position by posing as an expert on gambling, and he became best known to his fellow-countrymen by his suppositious "Treatise on Poker."

The Lure of Life.

New York Ledger.

Phrenologists have assigned to a protuberance under the ear the faculty of "vitativeness," or love and tenacity of life, and some of them assume that in proportion to the size of the bump is the strength of the vital element in the individual.

However this may be, it is not to be denied that the love of life is intense in some natures, and scarcely exists at all in others; and it is no less true that persons who very earnestly desire to live can keep a mortal disease at bay a great deal longer than those who are comparatively indifferent to their fate.

The tenacity with which some men cling to life is marvelous. We had an instance of this in the case of a noted pugilist, several years ago, who was shot in the breast during a bar-room scuffle, and his condition was pronounced hopeless by the surgeons. But he scoffed at their opinions, and actually lived several days with a ball in his heart, keeping his hold upon life—so it seemed—by sheer force of will.

A resolute determination not to succumb is, as every army surgeon knows, the salvation of many a wounded soldier, who without it would assuredly die. In the Crimean war the mortality among the wounded Turks was far greater than among the wounded French and English. The latter wrestled stoutly with death, and often baffled him when their doom seemed inevitable; but the predestinarian Mussulman, when dangerously injured, said gloomily, "it is my kismet" (fate), turned his face toward Mecca, and gave up the ghost.

There can be no doubt that love of life and vigor of will have been the means of restoring to health thousands of patients who, but for these mental characteristics, must have perished.

Old Age.

A medical man compares an old man to an old wagon: with light loading and careful usage it will last for years, but one heavy load or sudden strain will break it forever. Many people reach the age of fifty or sixty or seventy, measurably free from most of the pains and infirmities of age, cheery of heart and sound in health, ripe in wisdom and experience, with sympathies mellowed by age, and with reasonable prospects and opportunities for continued usefulness in the world for a considerable time. Let such persons be thankful, but let them also be careful. An old constitution is like an old bone—broken with ease, mended with difficulty. A young tree bends to the gale, an old one snaps and falls before a blast. A single hard lift, an hour of heating work, an evening of exposure to rain or damp, a severe chill, an excess of food, the unusual indulgence of an appetite or passion, a sudden fit of anger, an improper dose of medicine—any of these or other similar things may cut off a valuable life in an hour, and leave the fair hopes of usefulness and enjoyment but as a shapeless wreck.

The Voice

Perhaps no one can ever fully estimate how much influence he is constantly exerting through the tones of his voice. Nothing is so powerful to cheer the drooping energies of a discouraged group as the inspiring tones of hope in the voice of a new arrival. Who has not seen the immediate effect of a glad and sprightly voice breaking in upon an uninterested party of people? How their eyes brighten, and their brows clear, and their forms become erect! On the other hand, let a solemn, doleful or fretful voice break in on a gay and cheerful company, and how quickly the smile dies on the lip, and the depressing influence goes round!

The infant who cannot understand a word that the mother says is soothed and pleased, grieved and frightened, by her tones; and the seeds thus sown of love and gentleness, or of harshness and impatience, are sure to bear fruit in the child's later development, and exert a strong influence in shaping his future character, and preparing it or unfitting it to contend with the roughness of the world.

What to Eat with the Fingers.

New Orleans Picayune.]

The following is a list of what to eat with the fingers: Bread, toast and all tarts and cakes; olives, to which a fork should never be applied; lettuce, which should be dipped in the dressing or in a little salt; asparagus, whether hot or cold, when served whole, as it should be; celery, which may properly be placed on the table cloth beside the plate; fruits of all kinds except melons, and preserves, which are eaten with a spoon; cheese, which is almost invariably eaten with the fingers by the most particular people; strawberries, when served with the stem on, as they usually are in the most elegant houses. Even the leg or other small pieces of a bird is taken in the fingers at fashionable dinners, and at most of the luncheons ladies pick small pieces of chicken without using a fork.

How Long To Sleep.

Up to the fifteenth year most youngpeople require ten hours, and, until the twentieth year, nine hours. After that age every one finds out how much he or she requires, though, as a general rule, at least six to eight hours are necessary. Eight hours sleep will prevent more nervous derangement in women than any medicine can cure. During growth there must be ample sleep if the brain is to develop to its full extent; and the more nervous, excitable or precocious a child is the longer sleep should it get, if its intellectual progress is not to come to a premature standstill, or its life cut short at an early age.—Exchange.

Uses of Cocoanut Milk.

The Colonies and India relates that a new trade has lately sprung up between India and Germany a trade in cocoanut butter, which some German chemist discovered could be made from cocoanut milk. The cocoanuts are sent to Germany from India, chiefly Bombay, and one firm turns out from 6,000 to 8,000 pounds of cocoanut butter daily, which is said to be pleasant to the taste and smell, easily digestible, and incomparably better than cheap butter or oleomargarine from Europe.

The Saltness of the Sea.

The brackishness of sea water is due to various saline elements held in solution, as chlorides, bromides, iodides, sulphates and carbonates. The chief ingredient, however, and the one which gives it its character, is chloride of sodium, or common salt. The degree of saltness differs in different parts of the ocean, the proportion being greatest where the water is deepest, and, although inland seas generally contain a smaller quantity, the Mediterranean is said to be far more briny than the ocean itself. Yet, notwithstanding that deep sea water contains more saline matter than shallow, the saltness does not increase with the depth. In numerous analyses of sea water from various parts of the globe, it has been found that polar currents contain less salt than equatorial. These saline ingredients constitute about one-thirtieth of the weight of the water holding them in solution.

But what originates the salts of the sea? If an explanation be sought by supposing that they are derived from underlying geological formations abounding in these elements, the investigator is met by the obstacle that strata of this character which have come under observation of scientists have always borne evidence of having been deposited by ancient oceans. Again, it seems plausible that mineral springs may flow from the bed of the ocean, and thus have much to do with impregnating the water with saline properties. It is known to seamen that springs of fresh water in many places send their sweet currents up through the salt medium, and in such purity as to furnish fresh water supplies to vessels far out at sea.

But why does not the ocean lose its saltness from the vast rainfalls over its computed area of 146,000,000 of square miles, and from the commingling with its tides of the enormous volumes of water, which for ages have been poured down by great rivers in all parts of the world? An explanation is offered for the equableness of salinity by the development of animal life, especially of corals and corallines, the substance of which is chiefly calcareous or carbonate of lime.

It is said that nearly a grain of gold to the ton of sea water is held in solution by iodide of calcium, and that silver is found on the coppering of ships in quantities sufficient to make the trouble and expense of separation profitable. It is estimated that the entire ocean holds in solution about 2,000,000 tons of the precious metal.

How the Woodcock Feeds.

Forest and Stream.]

The birds would rest their bills upon the mud, and stand in this position for several seconds—as if listening. Then with a sudden, swift movement they would drive the bill its entire length in the soil, hold it so for a second, and then as swiftly withdraw it. Though I watched the birds carefully with a glass, I could not detect the presence of a worm in any bill when it was withdrawn. But a subsequent movement gave me the clue to their method of feeding. After having bored over a considerable piece of ground—a square foot or so each—they proceeded to execute what looked comically like a war-dance upon the perforated territory. They also occasionally tapped the ground with the tips of their wings. My intense curiosity to know the possible utility of this process was at length gratified by seeing a worm crawl, half-length, from one of the borings, when it was immediately pounced upon and swallowed by one of the woodcock. Presently another worm made its appearance, and so on until the woodcock had devoured at least a dozen of them. Then the "vein" seemed exhausted, and the birds took their leave.

I have come to the conclusion that certain birds are a great deal wiser than certain bipeds without feathers. If you will take a sharpened stick, and drive it into the ground a number of times, in a spot which is prolific of worms, and then tap on the ground for a few moments, you will find that the worms will come to the surface, and that they will come up through the holes which you have made. I account for it by the supposition that the tapping of the stick somehow affects the worms in a manner similar to the pattering of rain, and it is a well known fact that worms come to the surface of the earth after a shower.

Dandy Wolf Fight in Nevada.

Virginia City Chronicle.]

A Mill Creek miner thus winds up the story of a fight between a thousand wolves that besieged his cabin one night recently in the mountains of that region, incited to frenzy by the notes of the aforesaid miner's fiddle:

"I fiddled and they fit and ate each other, till the band began to thin out. Every time I gave an extra rasp on the E string they howled louder and pitched in afresh. They kept it up for three hours, when there wasn't more than forty or fifty left, and they so blamed full that they could hardly waddle. But I fiddled and they fit for a second wind. When one threw up the sponge the others bolted him in a twinkling. By and by there wasn't more than a dozen left. But I fiddled and they fit and feasted.

"When they got down to three, each one laid hold of another's tail and chawed for glory. The ring kept getting smaller, but I fiddled and they chawed until there was only a bunch of hair left, and that blowed away down hill. The snow was all red with blood and trampled down ten feet. Heads and bones were strung all down the canyon, and there was fur enough in sight to stuff a circus tent. It was the dandiest dog fight I ever saw."

Grandest State in the Union.

What North Carolina needs is 100,000 farmers who understand growing clover and the grasses. She has plenty of unoccupied room for them and a soil as well adapted to clover and grass as there is in the world; her climate cannot be excelled, and she can grow and ripen every variety of fruits and grain that can be grown outside of the Torrid Zone, and the day is coming when North Carolina will be the grandest agricultural State in the Union.

He—Has your father said anything to indicate how he likes me?

She—He has. And I think he prefers you roasted, judging from certain expressions I have heard him make use of.

"Delinquent subscribers are hereby warned not to let their daughters wear this paper for a bustle, as there is considerable due upon it, and they might talk cold."

THE ACQUITTAL OF BOYLE.

The trial of the ex-priest Boyle who had appealed from the verdict of a previous jury, with Judge Armfield on the bench, which had condemned him to death—was concluded about 12 o'clock on Saturday night last, resulting in the prisoner's acquittal and discharge from custody.

This case will take its place among the criminal records of the State as one of the most extraordinary which ever came within the purview of the courts. Its final issue, and the successive steps leading thereto from the hour of the discovery of the alleged crime, give us matter for very serious reflection. Assuming that in this second trial justice has vindicated itself, and that an innocent man—about to be sacrificed to judicial blundering—has been righted, it is startling to think how fallible is the administration of the law, and how easily twelve sworn men, in the performance of the most solemn duty pertaining to citizenship, may commit an error irretrievable and terrible to contemplate.

We are admonished, too, that public sentiment, when in the glow of deep feeling and impelled by strong excitement, becomes no better than the unreasoning clamor of the mob—instinct with savagery, dangerous, blood-thirsty. Boyle in the grasp of the officers, with the first horrid whisper of this nameless crime invading the ears of an outraged community, might well have seen rise before his startled vision the improvised noose and the swinging limb—and Boyle, condemned from the lips of his judge and a jury of his fellow-men, was remanded to his cell and his brief preparation for death amid the execrations of a surging crowd which would have gladly seen the sentence executed on the spot; but Boyle, emerging from the ordeal of his trial, sustained by the majesty of the law and stamped with its own imprimatur of spotless innocence, receives the hearty hand-shake on all sides, and is greeted with the public applause and congratulation:—yes, in spite of the stern warning of the presiding judge against such unseemly demonstration!

The charge of Judge MacRae impressed us as an able, impartial legal paper, exhaustively surveying all the ground, and as rigorously true to the rights of both sides as justice's self—and to the poor young girl whose ruin was remediless, no matter what the issue of the trial, we can only extend profound compassion.

ONE HUNDRED AND FIRST ANNIVERSARY.

The matter of appropriately celebrating the 101st anniversary of the adoption by North Carolina of the Constitution of the United States, in this city next November, is being freely discussed by our people, and it is the prevailing opinion here that the event will be duly observed this year, and be made a permanent annual celebration, in which all North Carolina will be cordially invited to participate to the fullest extent.

The subject, at least, is one well worthy the consideration of the patriotic people of our fair city, whose reputation for doing all things well stretches from the mountains to the seashore—from the "Gulf to the Great Lakes." Held in connection with the Cumberland Fair, as was done in 1889, with the addition of a good exhibition of relics and curiosities of a century ago, would add no little to the attractions of the Cumberland County Agricultural Society's exhibits, and prove a very interesting feature to the present generation.

What say you, gentlemen? There is nothing before the house, and a motion is in order.

A REBUKE WELL-DESERVED.

Knowing the man as we do, we should have been astonished had Judge MacRae failed to take very decided action upon the unwarranted demonstration which followed the announcement of the jury's verdict in the Boyle case. The Raleigh News and Observer of Tuesday says:

On the opening of court yesterday morning, Judge MacRae stated that he had made efforts to ascertain who were the persons who made the disturbances in the court room after the verdict was rendered on Saturday night, but had not been able to do so, the sheriff and other officers stating that they did not know who the parties were.

He characterized the conduct in the severest terms, and pronounced it shameful and disgraceful. He expressed himself that, without criticising the verdict of the jury, he did not believe the good people of Raleigh would be in sympathy with any demonstrations of applause such as were made. The Judge's rebuke was couched in the most severe language. His reference was to the noise made before he left the bench.

In a conversation with Col. Argo yesterday he also stated that he regarded the occurrence as a disgrace, and thought it could not be condemned too severely.

Class Exercises.

We acknowledge with thanks an invitation—with the compliments of the Orator, Mr. R. H. Holland—to be present at the Class Day Exercises of the University of North Carolina Class of '90. The Marshals for the occasion are Messrs. Chas. Rankin, Douglas Haigh (of Fayetteville), J. A. Gilmer, Jr., J. C. Biggs, R. L. Patterson. The President's Address will be delivered by Mr. A. McIver, and the Poem recited by Mr. T. M. Lee; the Historian is Mr. W. F. Shaffner, and the Prophet is Mr. H. L. Miller. The exercises will doubtless be full of interest, as is everything conducted at Chapel Hill. There will be a "German" in the evening—which we shall hate very much to miss.

Personal Pencilings.

Mr. J. Starr Dye has returned from a business trip North.

Mr. Geo. S. Cole, of Jonesboro, made a visit to Fayetteville this week.

Mr. T. A. Barker, of the Hotel LaFayette, is in Boston for a few days.

F. R. Cooper, Esq., of Clinton, was in the city Monday on legal business.

Mr. J. B. Underwood went to Wilmington and Washington on business this week.

Messrs. E. F. McCulloch, M. N. Tatum, and F. F. Gardner, of Bladen, were here Saturday.

Mr. Hardy, of the State Chronicle, was in Fayetteville this week in the interest of his excellent paper.

Mr. J. H. Currie, one of Wilmington's progressive and prominent business men, visited us last week.

Miss Minnie Shaw, a native of Fayetteville, but now residing at St. Paul's, was in the city last week.

Miss Emma Murchison returned to Fayetteville last Thursday, after a visit to relatives in New York and Wilmington.

Miss Janie Williams, who has been making a visit to her sister, Mrs. J. A. White, of Oxford, returned home last Thursday.

Mr. R. B. Monroe, of Cheraw, S. C., formerly a resident of this place, was here last week, and shaking hands with many friends.

Mrs. J. M. Walker came up to Fayetteville on a visit last week, to the gratification of the many friends who regretted her departure to Wilmington.

Capt. R. H. Tomlinson's family have gone to Wilmington for a temporary sojourn in that city, but expect to return to Fayetteville later in the season.

Mr. J. E. Garrett left yesterday morning for New York, on business connected with the new printing and publishing company recently organized in this place.

Rev. J. T. Gibbs, Presiding Elder of the Methodist Church of this district, accompanied by his wife and babe, arrived on the east-bound train on the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway last Friday.

Prof. Hamilton McMillan—whose polished and incisive pen embellishes the columns of our excellent Red Springs contemporary, the Farmer and Scottish Chief—made a visit to Fayetteville last week.

Mr. Frank F. Deming and Mr. Doughty, of Wilmington, Del., have been spending a few days with us—the former a native of this place, who finds many friends of former days to congratulate him on his success in life.

It gave us pleasure to meet at the depot last Friday Col. Donald McRae, of Wilmington, on his way home. Like his able father before him—who made the Wilmington & Weldon R. R. the splendid piece of work it is—Col. McRae is an influential "man of affairs" in his community, and intimately identified with all its best interests.

Ex-Sheriff Roderick McMillan, of Robeson county, made us a pleasant call last Saturday. The old Confederate soldier now and then revives the slumbering martial fires of his soul by participation in the parade and target practice of the Lumber Bridge Light Infantry, of which he is a member. By the way, Robeson county furnishes a contingent of two companies to the State Guard, one from Lumber Bridge and one from Maxton—the only county in the State except Rockingham, we believe, to make this showing—and they are unequaled in splendid physique and soldierly appearance since that splendid organization, the La Fayette Light Infantry, took its place in line in the famous Bethel Regiment, eliciting universal admiration as a company of grenadiers.

Death of Dr. James Baker.

Wilmington Messenger.]

We are sorry to announce the death of Dr. James Baker, which occurred yesterday morning at his residence near this city. He was in the 68th year of his age, and was a native of Fayetteville, having removed to this city soon after the civil war, in which he served as a second lieutenant in Company K (Bladen Guards), 18th Regiment, North Carolina State Troops. Soon after his removal to Wilmington he engaged in the practice of dental surgery, but lately he has lived in retirement.

Dr. Baker was a man of rare attainments, and was possessed of a mind richly stored with literature and science, being a constant reader and hard student. He was moreover a genial and accomplished gentleman and faithful christian, having for many years been a member of St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

Dead Bodies Being Robbed.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 31.—Thieves and robbers have been at work since the very first night after the tornado swept the city. Numerous bodies have been robbed.

Relief Applied For.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 31.—Gov. Fifer, last evening, received a telegram from the relief committee at Metropolis, asking him to take measures to relieve the sufferings of the people of that place.

Assistance Would be Appreciated.

NEW YORK, March 31.—Mayor Grant this morning received from Mayor Jacobs, of Louisville, a telegram in reply to one sent on Saturday offering assistance to the sufferers. It reads as follows:

"Hon. Hugh J. Grant, Mayor:

"On behalf of the city of Louisville, I thank you most gratefully for your highly sympathetic telegram. While I am not soliciting assistance, it could be used to great advantage, and for which our sufferers would be happy. I refer you to Drexel, Morgan & Co., E. H. Bristow and Logan Murray, Esq., as to myself."

THE BOYLE TRIAL

The Ex-Priest Acquitted of a Felonious Assault on Miss Whitaker.

RALEIGH, March 29.—In the trial of ex-Priest Boyle, charged with a felonious assault on Miss Whitaker, to-day a few character witnesses were examined.

At 12 o'clock Col. Argo commenced the opening speech for the State. He was followed by Col. Fuller, R. H. Battle and Geo. H. Snow for the defence. Col. Argo made the closing speech for the State. He concluded at 7.45 P. M., when Judge MacRae delivered the charge, which occupied about an hour and a half. At the conclusion of the charge the jury retired, and at 11.50 returned into court with a verdict of not guilty.

More Reports of Destruction and Loss of Life.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 31.—At Breman, Mecklenburg county, every dwelling in the place was destroyed. Six people are reported killed and nine badly injured.

One Hundred Houses Swept Away.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., March 31.—Over one hundred houses in the bottom lands between this city and Mt. Vernon, Ind., were swept away by the wind and water in the recent storm.

DIED.

BUSBEE—In this town, on Sunday, the 30th ult., Mrs. MARY BUSBEE, recently of Wake county, aged 63 years. Mrs. Busbee was for many years a member of Mt. Moriah Baptist Church of Wake county.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C., March 31, 1890.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the C. F & Y. V. Railway Company, held in Greensboro March 27, 1890, the following action was had, viz:

WHEREAS, Since the last meeting of this Board God in his all-wise providence has removed from us Mr. E. J. LILLY, an old and respected member of our Board of Directors; therefore Resolved, By the Board of Directors of the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway Company that by the death of Mr. E. J. Lilly this Company has lost one of its wisest and most valued Directors, who was ever ready, by his wise counsel and pecuniary aid, to advance the interests of this Company. Our intercourse with him as a member of this Board was always of a most pleasant character: he was ever courteous towards those with whom he was brought in contact, faithful in the discharge of all of his duties, and devoted to the interest of every enterprise with which he was connected. In his death we feel that we have lost a personal friend, and the Board of Directors an able and active member.

Resolved, That this resolution be spread upon the records of this Company, and a copy of the same be transmitted to the family of the deceased, with our assurances of our deep and sincere sympathy with them in their sore bereavement.

The Secretary was directed to publish the same in the Star and Messenger in Wilmington, the OBSERVER of Fayetteville, and Patriot of Greensboro.

From the Minutes.

JNO. M. ROSE, Sec'y.

IN MEMORIAM.

Only a few short weeks have passed since we were called to mourn the death of one of the oldest members of this Company; and now He who reaps "not in cruelty, not in wrath" again invades our ranks, and strikes from our roll the name of one who was in manhood's prime, and who bore an honored place amongst us. As a Captain of this Company THOMAS WETMORE BROADFOOT was, as in every position in which he was placed, a "manly man"—doing conscientiously what he conceived to be his duty. He acted honorably in his dealings with all mankind; proudly we can say of him: he was not one who by "guilt and crime, maintain the 'scutcheon, that without a stain their fathers bore;" therefore Resolved 1st, That in the death of Thomas Wetmore Broadfoot the Independent Light Infantry has lost a staunch friend and supporter, and one, who at all times, manifested a deep interest in the welfare of the Company to whose proud name he contributed so much.

2nd, That these resolutions be spread upon our records and a blank page be dedicated to his memory

3rd, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of our deceased comrade, and that they be published in the Fayetteville OBSERVER.

Dr. J. H. McAden, Charlotte, says he considers Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy the finest blood purifier that is on the market to-day.

Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy will Cure Indigestion.

RALEIGH, N. C., August 14, 1889.

Last winter I was suffering very much from indigestion and general debility, with a broken-down system, followed with chronic dysentery. I tried one bottle of Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy, and found so much relief and improvement I continued its use until I used the seventh bottle, which restored me to perfect health, and I am now as sound as a silver dollar. I can cheerfully recommend it as a good restorative, blood purifier and a builder-up of broken-down systems. W. B. JORDAN,
Reporter for Raleigh News and Observer.

Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy will Cure Rheumatism and Dyspepsia.

COMO, HERTFORD CO., N. C.

MRS. JOE PERSON—Dear Madam:—After having been a great sufferer from Rheumatism and Dyspepsia, and finally Erysipelas, and getting no substantial relief from other treatment, I was entirely relieved of these troubles in a comparatively short time by the use of your Remedy, and heartily recommend it to all who are similarly afflicted. I know of other instances in which it has been most effective and satisfactory. Yours very truly,
MRS. B. S. SPIERS.

My Remedy is now put in plain, round, pint packing bottles, no name blown. The carton holding bottle is now printed altogether in black ink instead of black and red as heretofore; my signature on each label is now written with pen and ink, instead of lithographed as formerly. Every label and carton numbered, as in physicians' prescriptions. The Wash packages are printed altogether in black ink and numbered. Persons buying the Remedy should see that the new style is furnished them, as I cannot guarantee any other to be genuine. MRS. JOE PERSON,
Kittrell, N. C.

THE mystery has been solved at last! All scientific men claim that microbes are the cause of all disease, and it has been their work and study to get a medicine that would kill the microbes in the human system without injury to the patient. This has been accomplished by Radam's Microbe Killer, which is a scientific wonder in the medical world.

For sale by B. E. SEDBERRY & SON.

NOTHING SUCCEEDS LIKE SUCCESS.

The reason RADAM'S MICROBE KILLER is the most wonderful medicine is because it has never failed in any instance, no matter what the disease, from LEPROSY to the simplest disease known to the human system.

The scientific men of to-day claim and prove that every disease is

CAUSED BY MICROBES,

New Lodge K. of P.

A new Lodge of Knights of Pythias will be organized at Tatum's this week. The work of conferring the degrees will be under the jurisdiction of Cumberland Lodge, No. 5, K. of P.

Explosion.

An explosion took place at the steam saw mill of Capt. J. A. McArthur, in Seventy-First township, on Tuesday of last week, by which the dome of the boiler was blown out. Fortunately, no one was injured.

Obituary.

The remains of the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Phillips were brought to this city for interment on Monday evening via the Wilson Short Cut R. R. We regret to learn that Mrs. Phillips is extremely ill at her home in Wilmington.

A Liberal Proportion of the Business.

Of the total receipts of naval stores at Wilmington on Thursday, 27th ult., by all river steamers and railroad lines, the Cape Fear & Yaddin Valley Railway carried in 26 per cent. of the spirits of turpentine, 60 per cent. of the rosin, and 37 per cent. of the tar.

"Entertaining Angels Unawares."

Davis, who was executed at Pittsboro on Friday, 28th ult., for the murder of Horton in December, 1889, left behind a sketch of his life, and mentions Fayetteville as one of the places at which he sojourned for a time, when he left South Carolina "between two suns," and bestowed his presence and belongings upon this State. Do any of our readers recollect having had the honor of his acquaintance?

After Lent.

"Darling," said a pretty young Fayetteville wife the other evening to her husband, "can't you take me on a little pleasure trip North after Lent?"

"After Lent? Oh, yes, after a hundred dollars or two are lent, if I can find somebody rash and confiding enough to advance that amount on my personal security. That's about your only chance of a little pleasure trip North." (Wretch!)

Fine Fish.

During the past ten days some of the finest shad we have ever seen from the Cape Fear river have been offered on this market—of a "catch" piled in front of a fish and meat stall on Person Street one day last week, several would weigh 7 to 8 lbs. each. If we mistake not, the State Fish Commission some years ago placed a quantity of Connecticut shad in this stream—and the fisherman can tell us whether that has had anything to do with the size and quality of the present supply.

Important to the Heirs of John McKenzie.

The following letter has been handed us for publication, which carries its importance on its face:

EDS. OBSERVER:—You can perhaps render a service to some of your patrons by notifying them that the heirs of John McKenzie, who emigrated to Texas about 1836, can learn something to their advantage by applying to me. It is information which I have accidentally come across in my practice, and I will be glad to give it to the proper persons.

Yours truly,
N. A. SINCLAIR.

Public Benefactors.

"A law has been passed by the Ohio legislature, authorizing township trustees to deduct $3 from the road tax of any property-owner who erects and supplies properly a public watering trough on his own land."

Very good judgment, too, is displayed in the enactment of this law. Dumb beasts doubtless suffer much, even under the care of those who have no thought of cruelty; and a resident of Haymount (Dr. S. J. Hinsdale) has for years kept a large trough in front of his premises for the benefit of the public, filled with pure water pumped up from an unfailing spring, which also furnishes the supply for family use. The teamsters who use that great highway day after day "rise up and call him blessed."

Holland—Culbreth.

On Wednesday evening, 26th ult., at the residence of Mr. R. M. Nimocks, Mr. Robt. L. Holland was united in marriage to Miss Loula Culbreth, daughter of the late John Culbreth, Rev. T. P. Barclay, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, officiating, assisted by Rev. C. W. Byrd, pastor of the Hay Street Methodist Church, with Mr. John Culbreth and Miss Minnie Watson as attendants.

After the ceremony there was a pleasant reception, with an elegant collation, to the relatives and connections, and the wedded pair were the recipients of many beautiful and useful gifts as well as of cordial congratulations and wishes for their future happiness, in which we beg to join with hearty good will.

Southern Connections.

The Charleston News and Courier of the 24th inst. has the following:

It was understood in railroad circles in the city yesterday that the authorities of the Charleston, Sumter & Northern Railroad would, in a few weeks, begin preparations for the construction of the northern extension of the road from Sumter to Bennettsville by the way of Darlington.

The company demanded $114,000 from the counties of the Pee-Dee section, this amount to be subscribed to the capital stock of the road. Darlington voted $80,000 some weeks ago, and the merchants of Charleston have subscribed nearly $10,000. The right of way will be guaranteed, and all the towns at which the road will touch on the route are expected to give ample lands on which to erect depots and sheds.

Darlington and Bennettsville have given first-class terminal facilities, and the prospect is that as soon as the road is constructed and equipped it will do a very large business, both in the passenger and freight departments.

In consideration of these facts the authorities will not stand back on account of the few thousand dollars deficit. It is expected that active preparations for work will be commenced very soon.

Young Men's Christian Association.

Quite a large assemblage constituted the meeting in the Presbyterian Church on Sunday afternoon for the advancement of the interests of the Young Men's Christian Association in this place. There were impressive devotional exercises and excellent congregational singing, with Miss Julia Barclay as organist.

General Secretary Harley presided over the meeting, and gave in a few remarks his impressions of the work and personnel of the recent State Convention at Goldsboro. He was followed by Mr. Q. K. Nimocks, President of the Association, after whom came successively, in pointed and appropriate terms, the other delegates, Messrs. Styles Sedbery, Newberry, Raynor, Jno. R. Underwood, Gaster, R. M. Prior, Jas. H. McNeill.

The exercises were concluded by an address from Mr. W. P. Fife—whom we had the pleasure of hearing for the first time. He has many of the gifts of the orator—a fine presence, a magnificent voice (it was delightful to hear him sing those Gospel Hymns), ease of bearing and a wealth of deep, fervent feeling. He impresses the hearer with his intense earnestness and his abiding conviction of his consecration to the work before him; and very touching was his appeal in closing for the prayers of the christian men and women of this community in his behalf during the meetings which he conducts at Laurinburg through the present week.

After Lo! These Many Years.

"See here," said a friend on Hay street the other day, "a leaf from the eventful past"—and he handed us a time-stained copy of the Fayetteville Observer, published in 1861, and containing a notice of a meeting of the women of Fayetteville to make cartridges for the troops departing to the field.

Those days of exultant enthusiam were rapidly merged in the terrible realities of a war at which the world stood aghast, and the time was to come when the same white hands, so deft at this first task of holiday soldiering, all tremblingly, but faithful still, stitched and pieced the worn carpets of their homes as blankets for the shivering camp, and gave up their scant apparel, sweet, sacrificing souls, to bandage mangled limbs and stop the flow of gaping wounds, where men "climbed fast to God" from bloody heaps in thicket and plain.

Some are with us still, bereft of husband, lover or son, to whose stricken hearts those days are an undying memory; many, alas! have long since faded "like a wreath of mist at eve" in all their beauty and bloom; some are fair matrons in happy homes, the bright eye just a little dimmed, the shining tresses streaked with gray. More than a quarter of a century since this "pomp and circumstance," this "magnificence," these accumulating horrors, of war! How hard it is to realize!

Lauriger Horatius,
Quam dixisti verum
Fugit Euro citius
Tempus, edax rerum!

The Proposed Convention.

We do not want the suggestion made by our valued correspondent, "J. A. H.," last week to drop out of the minds of the people of Fayetteville. By all means let us hold a lumber-men's convention at such a time during the present year as shall be judged best for the accomplishment of the end contemplated. As to the extent and variety of the natural woods of this section and the country traversed by the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway, we make the following extracts from the illustrated hand-book recently published by that company:

The flora of this region is varied and exuberant: fifty-four different kinds of wood were found by actual observation in a piece of land comprising four acres—swamp, upland and woods. In addition to dogwood (used in shuttle manufacturing), juniper, cypress (the material for the immense number of shingles shipped from Wilmington every year), poplar, and the white and water oaks, recent official figures have placed the amount of yellow-heart, long-leaf pine standing in this section, exclusive of Cumberland, at over one billion feet.

* * * * * *

Nearly all the different kinds of timber found in the shipyards of the great markets of this country grow immediately upon or contiguous to the line of this railway: the pine (alone worth millions of dollars annually in lumber and naval stores), all the species of oak, cedar, holly, cherry, cypress, juniper, hickory, dogwood, walnut, sycamore, persimmon, elm, gum, chestnut, beech, locust, ash, maple and other less important woods.

In Demand.

"Nature calls out for greens" at this season of the year, and salad and early vegetables are scarce in proportion to the urgent demand. Asparagus has been on the market for some days, with spinach in small quantity, supplied by our home gardeners. A few Florida cabbage are now coming in.

Correct, Brother.

The Wilmington Messenger of last Sunday makes us a graceful, friendly little bow as follows:

Fayetteville is a fine town with a future. It has wisely invested $125,000 within half a year in small industries, and it will be sure to reap a full benefit. It is wisely sowing now.

For Rent.

In the yard of the Young Men's Christian Association, a nice four-room brick dwelling, with small brick kitchen and a large brick wood-house—all conveniently arranged—is offered for rent. A small white family desired; terms low. Apply either to Mr. B. E. Sedberry or the General Secretary, Mr. G. G. Harley.

"The Light Fantastic."

The young men of the city will give a ball in Williams Hall shortly after Easter, in which they will have the fine music of the harpers to add to the excellence and completeness of the entertainment. There has been of late a natural dearth of amusement; and, as our social gatherings of this character are always extremely pleasant, a large attendance may be expected.

Merchants' Excursion.

The editors of the OBSERVER tender their acknowledgments to Col. F. W. Kerchner, chairman, and the other members of the committee for an invitation to participate in the "celebration of the formal opening of the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway," on the 16th and 17th insts. It will not be their fault if they do not enjoy the pleasure of attendance on an occasion that will be altogether so pleasant.

Appointed General Manager.

Capt. J. W. Fry, for a long time the very capable General Superintendent of the Cape Fear & Yadkin Railway, has been appointed General Manager of the road—official announcement of which is made by the following circular:

GREENSBORO, N. C., March 27, '90.

Mr. J. W. Fry, heretofore General Superintendent, has this day been appointed General Manager of this company by the Board of Directors.

He will have charge of the traffic maintenance and operating departments, and will be obeyed accordingly.

JULIUS A. GRAY, President.

A Fitting Tribute to an Upright Judge.

The Raleigh correspondent of the Wilmington Messenger thus writes to the Sunday edition of that paper:

Judge MacRae makes friends here. He is amiable yet firm, and a lawyer all the way through. He is merciful, as a case today illustrated. A negro woman convicted of a vile perjury has two children—one a year and the other three years of age. The judge said he wanted to punish her, but not her innocent children or the county, so he would suspend judgment upon her for five years, until the children were larger; then she could come in and be punished. Looking at your correspondent, who sat inside the bar, the judge said: "Don't put that down"—but it is recorded, nevertheless.

Memorial Font.

Some time ago—in giving an extended notice of the handsome and artistic interior improvements and decorations of St. John's Episcopal Church—we made mention of the memorial windows of the recess chancel and other tributes of affectionate remembrance; and since then there has been placed in front of the altar a beautiful baptismal font, presented by Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Slocomb "in loving memory of Louise," their little daughter, who died September 23rd, 1887—whom not the sheltering care and caressing arms of tender love might hold to earth from the Father's beckoning hand:

"My Lord hath need of these flowrets gay,"
The Reaper said, and smiled;
"Dear tokens of the earth are they
Where he was once a child."

The urn, with appropriate inscription to God and His Glory, surmounts a graceful shaft upon an ornate pedestal—all of spotless white marble, carved in exquisite finish and workmanship.

Directors' Meetings.

The Boards of Directors of the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway Company and the North State Improvement Company met in Greensboro last Thurday, 27th ult. Of the two boards, there were present: Col. Julius A. Gray, of Greensboro, President, and Mr. Jno. M. Rose, of Fayetteville, Secretary, of the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway Company; Col. K. M. Murchison, of New York; Col. J. Turner Morehead, of Leaksville; Dr. D. W. C. Benbow, of Greensboro; Dr. W. A. Lash, of Walnut Cove; Dr. J. M. Worth, of Asheboro; Messrs. Jno. D. Williams, of Fayetteville, President of the North State Improvement Company; Geo. W. Williams, of Wilmington; R. T. Gray, of Raleigh; W. A. Moore and W. Fulton, of Mt. Airy; Chas. F. Stokes, of Richmond, Va.

The announcement of the death of Mr. E. J. Lilly, formerly a director in both companies, was followed by the introduction of appropriate resolutions, which were unanimously adopted and ordered to be engrossed upon the records.

The transmontane extension of the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway, connecting with the Norfolk & Western R. R. at the State line on the spurs of the Blue Ridge, is being pushed vigorously forward with a large force, while the work is no less steady on the branch from Mt. Airy to the granite quarries, and on the extension of the Factory Branch to Ramseur's, via Cedar Falls.

The North State Improvement Company, after a free discussion and careful consideration of the matter, subscribed $25,000 to the capital stock of the Greensboro Iron and Steel Company.

A resolution was passed by the Directors of the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway Company to the effect that it had not been, and was not now, in contemplation to move the shops from Fayetteville to Greensboro or any other point.

The official reports of the two companies were in all respects highly gratifying.

Religious Notes.

Religious services were very interesting at St. Patrick's Catholic Church on the occasion of Palm Sunday—a thoughtful, forceful discourse by Rev. Father Francis in the morning and vespers in the evening.

A very large congregation filled the Presbyterian Church last Sunday morning, the interest and impressiveness of the services being greatly enhanced by very fine vocal and instrumental music. Just before the delivery of the sermon the rite of baptism was administered to Isabelle, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Bidgood. Rev. T. P. Barclay selected as the theme of his discourse christians as the "salt of the earth" and the "light of the world." He is a very close student of the Bible; and, as he never preaches a written sermon, he rarely fails to reinforce his text with striking and copious illustrations from other passages of Scripture. Mr. Barclay is never commonplace—the listener goes away always with something to think over and digest. A congregational meeting will be held in the Presbyterian Church this evening at 8 o'clock, when the stated reports of church work and progress will be submitted.

"Recognition in heaven" was presented to the minds of his hearers by Rev. W. B. Oliver at the Baptist Church on Sunday evening. It was a subject broad enough to challenge all the resources of thought of the student, the rich imagery of the rhetorician and the impassional appeals of the erator—and it was handled in a masterly manner by the gifted speaker on this occasion.

Rev. C. W. Byrd, on Sunday night, discoursed of man, the object of God's watchful care—who is ever "mindful of him" and who "doth visit him"—both as a material being whom he has endowed with physical capabilities, intellectual capacities and moral attributes placing him first in the order of animate creation, and as a spiritual being, to whom the divine plan of salvation, the incarnation of the son, all the boundlessness of the Divine love, were fitted and assimilated.

A very earnest and interesting meeting was carried on all last week at the Presbyterian Mission in Campbellton, conducted by Rev. T. P. Barclay, with the assistance of Mr. W. P. Fife on Wednesday evening. Intense religious feeling has been manifested; and on Sunday evening, when the building was packed to overflowing, many presented themselves as penitents and inquirers. The meeting closed on Tuesday night with the addition of 14 to the membership of the Mission.

Easter will be fittingly observed at St. John's Episcopal Church next Sunday, and most beautiful and imposing services may be expected. The exercises of Lent have been very fully attended, and the sermons of Rev. Thos. Atkinson appropriate to this devotional season of the Church have been remarkably forcible, feeling and graceful.

Like a meteor, large and bright,
Fell a golden seed of light
On the field of Christmas night,
When the Babe was born.

Then 'twas sepulchred in gloom,
Till above his holy tomb
Flashed its everlasting bloom,
Flower of Easter morn!

Neighborhood Storms.

The high winds of last Friday and Saturday were attended by much damage all about us; but in this immediate section, though we had a gale for a short time, the injury done to buildings, fencing, &c., was comparatively trifling.

At Magnolia, Duplin county, the force of the wind was that of a tropical hurricane. One church was completely demolished, another half overturned and a dwelling house destroyed. Prostrate trees strew the whole country, and fences are down for miles.

The Bennettsville section in South Carolina was grievously afflicted, and the damage to barns, stables and other buildings is very serious.

The Sanford Express says:

As this paper went to press late Saturday afternoon, Sanford was visited by a severe hail and rain storm, lasting twenty minutes. Some of the hail stones crashed through windows in dwelling houses and flower houses. The rain came in water spouts to the depth of six inches, and damaged the newly-plowed farms. The air was shocked with electricity, which frequently discharged itself in large balls of fire running steeple chases on the steel tracks of the railroads. A party on one of the railroads at the time says the tracks as far as he could see would at moments flash with electricity, and the air felt like the handle of a battery.

Misconduct in Public Places.

The General Secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association—addressing himself, on Tuesday morning, to the task of having the handsome rooms put in order—very naturally felt aggrieved and indignant to find the carpet under the tables in the parlors and about the reading desks littered with peanut hulls, orange peelings, etc.—the sign manual of the presence of a visitor or visitors who would have been doubtless more at home in the slums frequented by "hoodlums" and "toughs." Why is it that the average American—not bad at heart, in general—feels himself at liberty to disfigure the walls, chairs and furniture of public buildings, and render their floors repulsive to decent people?

New Publishing Company.

In another column will be found a notice of the organization of a company—with Jas. R. Williams, H. W. Lilly, J. E. Garrett and N. W. Ray as incorporators—for the purpose of conducting a general job-printing, engraving and book-binding business, together with the manufacture of blank-books, stationery, etc. The 2nd floor of the large Williams building on Hay street is being fitted up for occupancy by the company, and Mr. Garrett went on to New York yesterday for type, presses, etc.

We heartily greet this new Fayetteville enterprise, about which we will have more to say next week, when we have more space at command.

The officers are: H. W. Lilly, President; N. W. Ray, Attorney; J. R. Williams, Secretary and Treasurer; J. E. Garrett, Business Manager.

Increase of Capital Stock.

The capital stock of the Fayetteville Cotton Mills has been increased recently by the amount of $10,000—rendered necessary by the enlargment of the "plant," the addition of new machinery and the steady growth of the business of the mills. The continued success of the company is cause for general gratification in the community.

A Fine Classical Scholar.

Prof. Geo. T. Winston, in an excellent article in a recent number of the State Chronicle, makes the following recognition of the scholarly attainments of an esteemed citizen and well-equipped educator of this place:

Among them I should mention Prof. B. C. McIver, now Superintendent of the Fayetteville Graded School, whose knowledge of Greek and Latin is not surpassed by that of any man in the State of his age.

The Messenger's Railroad Edition.

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley edition of the Wilmington Messenger is of course creditable to the energy of Mr. Bonitz, which is indomitable, and his devotion to the interests of his State and section, which is unflagging. It is a mammoth paper—as excellent in quality as it is imposing in size—and is handsomely illustrated with views of Wilmington and the scenery and other points of interest along the line of road, in which department of the publication we note with pleasure evidences of the skill and taste of Mr. McKee Barclay, of this city, Manager of the Carolina Engraving Company.

Improvements.

Col. Wm. Alderman is building a pretty residence in East Fayetteville, on Russell street.

Mr. Chas. B. McMillan has nearly completed two comfortable buildings in the south-western suburbs of the city.

The Baptist Parsonage is completed, and we cordially congratulate both pastor and congregation on the pleasant home into which the former will soon be inducted. The infant Sunday School-room is also finished.

Mr. W. P. Wemyss has remodeled and repainted the Frizell residence, making it a very tasteful and attractive building.

Mr. F. W. Thornton has the framework up for a new dwelling near the Masonic Lodge, and we learn that it is his intention to put up one or more additional buildings in the same neighborhood.

North Carolina Brownstone.

Steps are now in progress for the organization of a company, with a capital of $50,000 or more, to develop and work the quarries of valuable brownstone in the vicinity of Sanford, lying along the line of the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway. Messrs. W. H. Smith, of Wilmington, J. L. Ketchum, of Milwaukee, with others, have recently secured a lease of nearly 400 acres of land upon which the strata of stone lie, Mr. J. M. Wicker, of Moore county, having furnished 300 acres of land, and other property-owners smaller quantities.

This stone has already been used to no inconsiderable extent for building purposes. It is of superior texture and color; and, in quarrying, turns out from 70 to 80 per cent. of merchantable material. A recent blast brought out one piece of stone containg 753 cubic feet.

Hymen's Alter in Sampson.

We made a brief notice last week of the marriage of Mr. J. W. Morrissey, of Little River Academy, to Miss Eliza Faison, of Clinton, since which we have been informed of further interesting particulars of the ceremony, which was beautiful, performed in the parlor of Col. W. L. Faison, Rev. Dr. Marable officiating. The toilettes of the bride and bridemaids were very elegant, and the attendants were as follows:

Mr. A. J. Cook, of Fayetteville, with Miss Florence Faison, of Elliott; Mr. R. L. Rybon, of Shelby, with Miss Mattie Lee, of Goldsboro; Dr. James Spicer, of Goldsboro, with Miss Mary Lou Brown, of Clinton; Mr. A. G. Moseley, of Warsaw, with Miss Rena Micks, of Clinton; Mr. F. L. Faison, of Warsaw, with Miss Annie VonGlahn, of Wilmington; Mr. R. G. Morissey, of Clinton, with Miss Maria Shaw, of Faison's Depot; Mr. W. S. Micks, of Clinton, with Miss Nida Hicks, of Faison's Depot, and Mr. J. S. Faison, of Warsaw, with Miss Walker Morissey, of Clinton.

District Convention.

Mr. Q. K. Nimocks, President of the Young Men's Christian Association of Fayetteville, has appointed the following committees, looking to the proper reception and entertainment of the delegates to the District Convention, to meet here on the 29th of May:

COMMITTEE OF RECEPTION.

Geo. P. McNeill, Chairman; W. B. Malloy, E. W. O'Hanlon. The duties of this committee will be to meet the delegates at the different trains and boats, and escort them to the rooms of the Association.

COMMITTEE ON HOMES.

Dr. J. W. McNeill, Chairman; Dr. J. H. Marsh, R. M. Prior, J. M. Lamb, John Underwood. The duties of this committee are to provide homes for the delegates, and to see that delegates are sent to their respective homes on arrival.

The above committees have been carefully selected, and it is earnestly hoped that every man appointed will serve. Should it be impossible for any one appointed on either to do so, however, he will please report the fact at once to Mr. Harley, the General Secretary.

PROGRESS.

It is very important in this age of vast materiel progress that a remedy be pleasing to the taste and to the eye, easily taken, acceptable to the stomach and healthy in its nature and effects. Possessing those qualities, Syrup of Figs is the one perfect laxative and most gentle diuretic known.

CATARRH CURED health and sweet breath secured, by Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Nasal Injector free. For sale at T. W. Broadfoot & Co.'s Drug Store.

"Finest Beyond Question."

We take pleasure in announcing to the public that we are in receipt of the final shipment of which completes our stock for the Spring season.

FINE CLOTHING

TO GENTLEMEN

who have been accustomed in the past to have their clothes made to measure in order to secure good fitting garments, we would say that our fine grade goods this season are from whose goods are made up and trimmed exactly the same as Custom Clothing, and the fit, set and shape are as perfect as any one could desire.

The F. B. Q. Clothing Co.,

You are expressly asked to examine these goods because we consider the manufacturers justified in their claim to the title of

THE BREATH OF SONG.

FRANK DEMPSTER SHERMAN.

From the minster organ loft,
  Floating down the shadowed nave,
Comes a strain of music soft,
  Falling as a weary wave
    Falls upon the beach of sand;
    Murmurous and sweet and bland,
    Bearing from the mighty sea
    Messages of melody.

There, alone, the organist
  Lets his listless fingers go—
Lost in a melodious mist—
  O'er the keyboard to and fro;
    There, half dreaming in the gloom,
    Sits the weaver at his loom,
    Weaving with the threads of sound
    Music-woof the warp around.

All unconsciously he hides
  Strains familiar in his theme,
When a master spirit glides
  Through the doorway of his dream;
    Mozart, Handel, Chopin, or
    Harmony's great conjuror—
    Rapt Beethoven!—each is part
    Of the dreaming player's heart.

So the poet dreams, nor heeds
  Who may listen, who may hear;
Following where fancy leads,
  She alone to him is dear;
    Omar, Keats, Theocritus,
    In his voice may speak to us
    From the realm of ages dim—
    These are in the heart of him!

Poets in the fields of time,
  Since the world began, have sown
Wide the precious seeds of rhyme,
  And to us to-day are blown
    Odors from these poem-flowers,
    Seedlings of the later hours—
    Blossoming the fields along,
    Breathing the sweet breath of song.

A Kicking Cow.

An Oregon farmer gives a remedy for kicking cows which he claims to have used with great success for the past twelve years: Take a small rope or cord about the size of a clothes-line; make a loop in one end; hold the loop end in one hand, and drop the other end over the cow's back, bringing it under her, and passing it through the loop; then slip it back just behind the hips, bringing it underneath just in front of and close to the udder, and adjusting it so that the loop is near the back bone.

Now draw the rope through the loop tightly and fasten it—the more tightly the better if the animal is very vicious. On the first application she will jump and try to kick, and will perhaps bellow; out let her kick, for she will soon tire of that amusement, and you can thenceforth sit down and milk without the least fear of danger. You could hardly provoke her to kick. If she should still attempt it, however, tighten the rope, and continue to do this until she gives up. Three applications in succession will effect a cure in the most refractory case. Treat her kindly and gently all the time, betraying not the least excitement.

Best Time to Buy Bees.

Prairie Farmer.]

Mrs. L. Harrison, whose long experience in all the operations and details of an extensive and very successful apiary entitles her opinions to consideration, says:

All things considered, spring is the best season in which to buy bees—from the 1st to the 15th of April in this latitude, and from the 1st to the 15th of March farther south. Good, strong colonies with a vigorous queen, would run little risk of loss before a return of the outlay might be expected.

When bees are purchased at the close of the honey harvest, or during the fall and winter, they are no source of profit to the owner until flowers bloom. I have heard persons who had bees to sell talk glibly of the number of pounds of honey there were in the hives to a would-be purchaser. Suppose there were? The bees would need every ounce of it to live upon and rear brood until flowers bloomed, and the purchaser would run the risk of losing his colony if he took away any of the honey for use on his table.

Salt for Cattle.

Massachusetts Ploughman.]

If cattle were forced to eat salt added to their food it might do them harm, but it is extremely doubtful whether they will eat too much salt if they are allowed free access to it, and free choice to take it or not. Salt, being an apparent need of the system, will help to keep the animal healthy. This will greatly increase the flow of milk as well as improve its quality. It is now believed that salt will do this directly, and that its judicious use will tend to improve the churning quality of the milk. But the salt should be given regularly, and in accordance with an unvarying system; if this plan is not pursued there will be suffering—at one time from a lack of it, and at another from excess of it. Provide rock salt, and have a place for it in reach of the cattle—a trough in the yard or a box at the side of the barn or stable.

The Poultry Yard.

The hen-house, most especially where wooden floors are in use, is not generally appreciated at its full value. Any kind of clean loam or clay soil will answer for an occasional application upon the floor or around and under the roosts. A compost heap may be easily and profitably made therefrom, every morning or so raking out this earth, mixed with the droppings of the fowls during the night. When your field or garden work comes on in the spring you will have a mass of manure for your vegetables, for application about the roots of your strawberries and raspberries, or as a top-dressing for the lawn around the house, which cannot be surpassed for its fertilizing qualities. It will cost you nothing but a little trifling labor once a week, and the earth used in forming the compost will purify the atmosphere of the poultry-house.

A Good Whitewash.

Slack half a bushel of lime in boiling water, carefully covering the vessel during the process to keep in the steam. Strain the liquid through a fine seive, and add to it a peck of salt previously thoroughly dissolved in warm water, three pounds of ground rice boiled to a thin paste, a half pound of powdered Spanish whiting and a pound of clear glue dissolved in warm water. Reduce the mixture to the right consisteney by moistening, and, when used, apply as hot as possible. A cheaper wash for outside work may be made with the same amount of lime, adding a pound of salt, half pound of sulphate of zinc and a gallon of sweet milk.

Early Radishes.

As soon as the ground is dry in spring sow radishes in light, rich soil, in rows from eight to twelve inches apart, every week or ten days for a succession, up to the middle of June.

Mrs. Honeymon—My love, tell me why you look so cross. You should have no secrets from me. Remember that we are one now.

Mr. Honeymoon—well, the landlord don't seem to think so, anyhow.

A saloon is like a harbor—most of the wrecks outside the bar.

FACTS FOR THE SICK!

Letter From an Eminent Divine In Regard to the Best Medicine in the World. Read.

WONDERFUL CURES.

ATLANTA, GA., January 2, 1890.

Six months ago, at the request of a friend who was interested in the sale of King's Royal Germetuer, I made a written statement of the benefits I had received from the use of that medicine. In that statement I expressed the belief that it would cure me entirely of Catarrh. Within the last two months I have received letters from every quarter of the nation calling on me for further information in regard to my health. It has been impossible for me to write privately to each person who has made this request, and I am therefore under the necessity of making another public statement.

I am free from Catarrh. I believe that I could get a certificate to this effect from any competent physician. I have used no medicine within the last six months except King's Royal Germetuer. My health is better than it has been in thirty years. I am in possession of information which warrants me in saying that the relief which I have experienced from the use of the medicine is not more certain and radical than that which it has brought to hundreds of persons in Georgia and other States.

I feel it to be my duty to say, also, that the effects of this remedy upon my wife have been even more signal and wonderful. She has been almost a lifelong invalid from Nervous Headache, Neuralgia and Rheumatism. In a period of thirty years she has scarcely had a day's exemption from pain. She has been using Germetuer about two months. A more complete transformation I have never witnessed. Every symptom of disease has disappeared. She appears to be twenty years younger, and is as happy and playful as a healthy child. We have persuaded many of our friends to take the medicine, and the testimony of all of them is that it is a great remedy.

J. B. MAWTHORNE,
Pastor First Baptist Church.

Royal Germetuer builds up from the first dose, the patient quickly feeling its invigorating and health-giving influence. It increases the appetite, aids digestion, clears the complexion, regulates the liver, kidneys, etc., and speedily brings bloom to the cheek, strength to the body and joy to the heart. For weak and debilitated females it is without a rival or a peer.

If you are suffering with disease and fail of a cure, send stamp for printed matter, certificates, etc.

For sale by the Atlantic Germetuer Company, 14 N. Broad St., Atlanta, Ga., and by druggists. Price reduced from $2.50 to $1.50 per concentrated bottle, which makes one gallon of medicine as per directions accompanying each bottle. Can be sent by express C. O. D. if your druggist cannot supply you.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

The World Moves!

Get Up and Ride!!

When the Big Guns in the Dry Goods trade, who are supposed to buy their goods on long time, insist on selling everything to everybody for strict cash, we think it is time for us heathen, who have to pay cash and cash only for our goods before we can ever see them, to follow in their illustrious footsteps.

It is a well-known fact that all dealers in Grain are compelled by the commercial law of the times to pay for their supplies before they can get them, however much such dealers may be worth, or however they may be.

We have decided therefore to adopt the same rule in selling that we have to abide by in buying. In our case, this should always have been the rule. The unbusiness-like methods of others being our only excuse for wrong-doing, we trust that all of our patrons will "catch on" to the "new departure," and show their appreciation of our endeavors in the past to please them, by continuing to give us their patronage.

Recollect that we sell you of the unground material.

We also hold that to endeavor to do a

Hand to Hand Cash Transaction with every purchase is not only impracticable but also unbusiness-like, and we wish it distinctly understood that accounts with parties of a known place of business, that are always promptly paid on presentation without any foolishness, is in our opinion cash.
